

Korea's National Assembly

Politics Looking Forward

April 18, 2016 5–6:30 p.m.

Social Sciences Building room 107, UC San Diego

Please register at: korea-national-assembly-elections.eventbrite.com

Moderator: Stephan Haggard, Director of the Korea-Pacific Program at GPS

Panelists: Kyle Ferrier, Director of Academic Affairs and Research at KEI

Scott Snyder, Senior Fellow for Korea Studies and director of the program on U.S.-Korea Policy at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR)

David Straub, Associate Director of the Korea Program at the Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center at Stanford University

Divisions within both the ruling party and opposition forces in Korea have generated uncertainty in advance of the April 13 National Assembly elections. In this retrospective and analysis, Kyle Ferrier, David Straub and Scott Snyder will provide an analysis of the election outcomes and their implications for politics in the remainder of the Park Geun Hye presidency, the prospects for important legislation on the economy and the upcoming presidential elections in 2017.